LANGURE Jr. Fellows are doctoral students, typically at NC State University, who are full members of the LANGURE initiative. They receive a $1,000 stipend. The responsibilities are:

- Enroll in PHI 816, "Introduction to Research Ethics;"
- Draft a module with your Sr. Fellow on "The Three Most Important Ethical Issues in Research in {our field}.",
- Draft 12-15 multiple choice questions testing knowledge of the most important points in the module;
- Identify a 1-page narrative of an individual engaged in excellent research from one's NC State department (the "hero"), plus the hero's web page (or an article about them with a picture);
- Identify a 1-page narrative about a researcher in one's field caught in research misconduct (the "heel")--not from any of LANGURE's institutions;
- Identify the URLs for the ethical codes of the professional organizations students in your discipline are most likely eventually to join;
- Present the module in departmental seminars as appropriate;
- If available, present your module at, and participate in the planning and execution of, the LANGURE national conference at NC State, April 12-14, 2007.

The Fellowship begins upon signing the contract and ends when the responsibilities are fulfilled.
LANGURE Jr. Fellows are doctoral students, typically at NC State University, who are full members of the LANGURE initiative. They receive a $1,000 stipend. The responsibilities are:

- Enroll in PHI 816, "Introduction to Research Ethics;"
- Draft a module with your Sr. Fellow on "The Three Most Important Ethical Issues in Research in [our field]."
- Draft 12-15 multiple choice questions testing knowledge of the most important points in the module;
- Identify a 1-page narrative of an individual engaged in excellent research from one's NC State department (the "hero"), plus the hero's web page (or an article about them with a picture);
- Identify a 1-page narrative about a researcher in one's field caught in research misconduct (the "heel")--not from any of LANGURE's institutions;
- Identify the URLs for the ethical codes of the professional organizations students in your discipline are most likely eventually to join;
- Present the module in departmental seminars as appropriate;
- If available, present your module at, and participate in the planning and execution of, the LANGURE national conference at NC State, April 12-14, 2007.

The Fellowship begins upon signing the contract and ends when the responsibilities are fulfilled.
LANGURE Junior Research Ethics Fellows

LANGURE Jr. Fellows are doctoral students, typically at NC State University, who are full members of the LANGURE initiative. They receive a $1,000 stipend. The responsibilities are:

- Enroll in PHI 816, "Introduction to Research Ethics;"
- Draft a module with your Sr. Fellow on "The Three Most Important Ethical Issues in Research in [our field]."
- Draft 12-15 multiple choice questions testing knowledge of the most important points in the module;
- Identify a 1-page narrative of an individual engaged in excellent research from one's NC State department (the "hero"), plus the hero's web page (or an article about them with a picture);
- Identify a 1-page narrative about a researcher in one's field caught in research misconduct (the "heel")--not from any of LANGURE's institutions;
- Identify the URLs for the ethical codes of the professional organizations students in your discipline are most likely eventually to join;
- Present the module in departmental seminars as appropriate;
- If available, present your module at, and participate in the planning and execution of, the LANGURE national conference at NC State, April 12-14, 2007.

The Fellowship begins upon signing the contract and ends when the responsibilities are fulfilled.