Our Mission

- Our Mission in this project is to present the time old story of Romulus and Remus for the audience in a new-aged perspective. So sit back and watch as the Gladiators act out this fable.

The Beginning

- The story of Romulus and Remus starts with a unaccepted love. It is a love between the God of Garner Ares, and the Vestal of Apex Rhea Silvia. She became pregnant and twin boys were born. They were named Romulus and Remus.

The Evil

- The Evil king of the land found out about this birth and decided to take action. Because the mother was a vestal she was not allowed children, so the king stole them away. He told a servant to take the twins and drown them in the river.

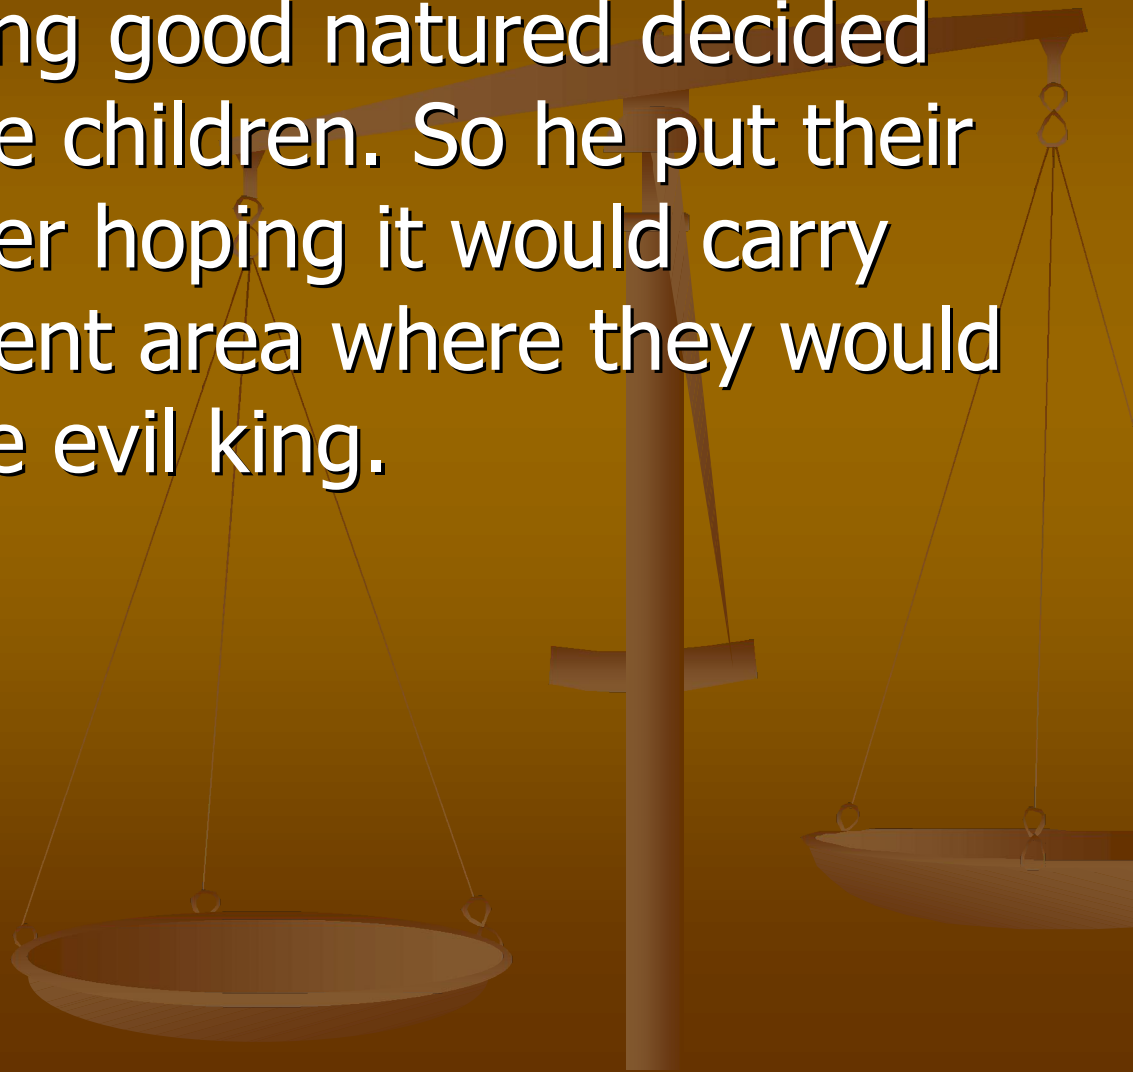

The Evil King has no place for children, be gone with them!

The Choice

- The servant being good natured decided not to drown the children. So he put their cradle in the river hoping it would carry them to a different area where they would be safe from the evil king.

All right Romulus, stay safe and don't fight with your brother!

Aid

- Miss Wuf found the two children and saved them from the river. She took care of them and kept them safe from the elements until a Sheppard found the children and took them home.

The Sheppard

- The Sheppard's name was Faustulus and he and his wife raised the twins until they were men. Romulus and Remus then decided to fight another group of Sheppard's and became great warriors during this fight.

Take a break and soothe in the melodies!

The House

- Then they decided to build a house on the banks of the river that Faustulus had found them on. Romulus wanted to build his house on Garner hill, but his brother wanted to build his on Apex Hill. They went on to build two different houses.

The Two Houses

- The arguing between the two men did not stop even after their houses were built. Remus teased his brother about his lower property values. Because of this the two started to fight.

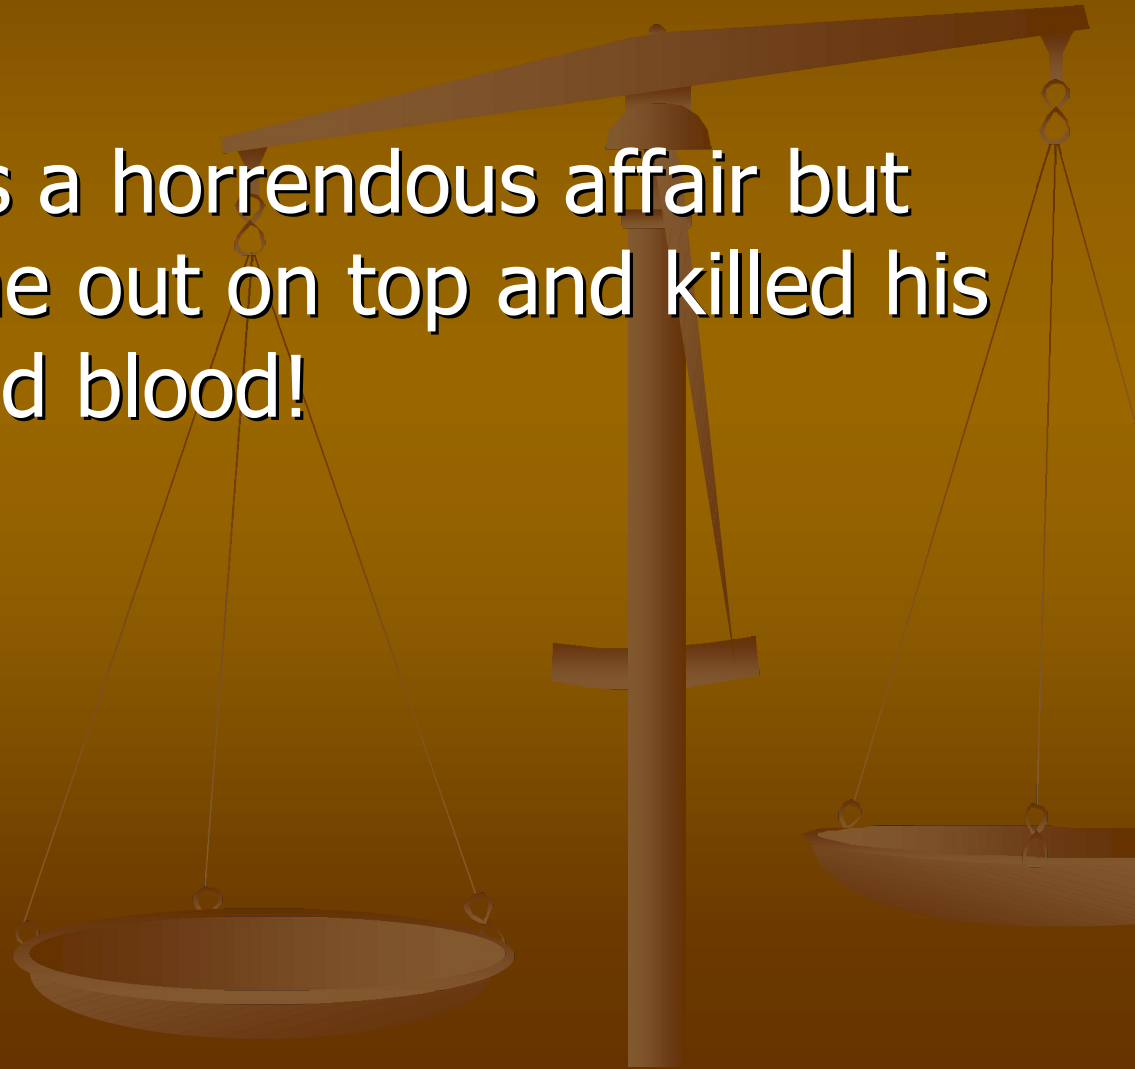

A fight to remember.

The Death

- The fight was a horrendous affair but Romulus came out on top and killed his brother in cold blood!

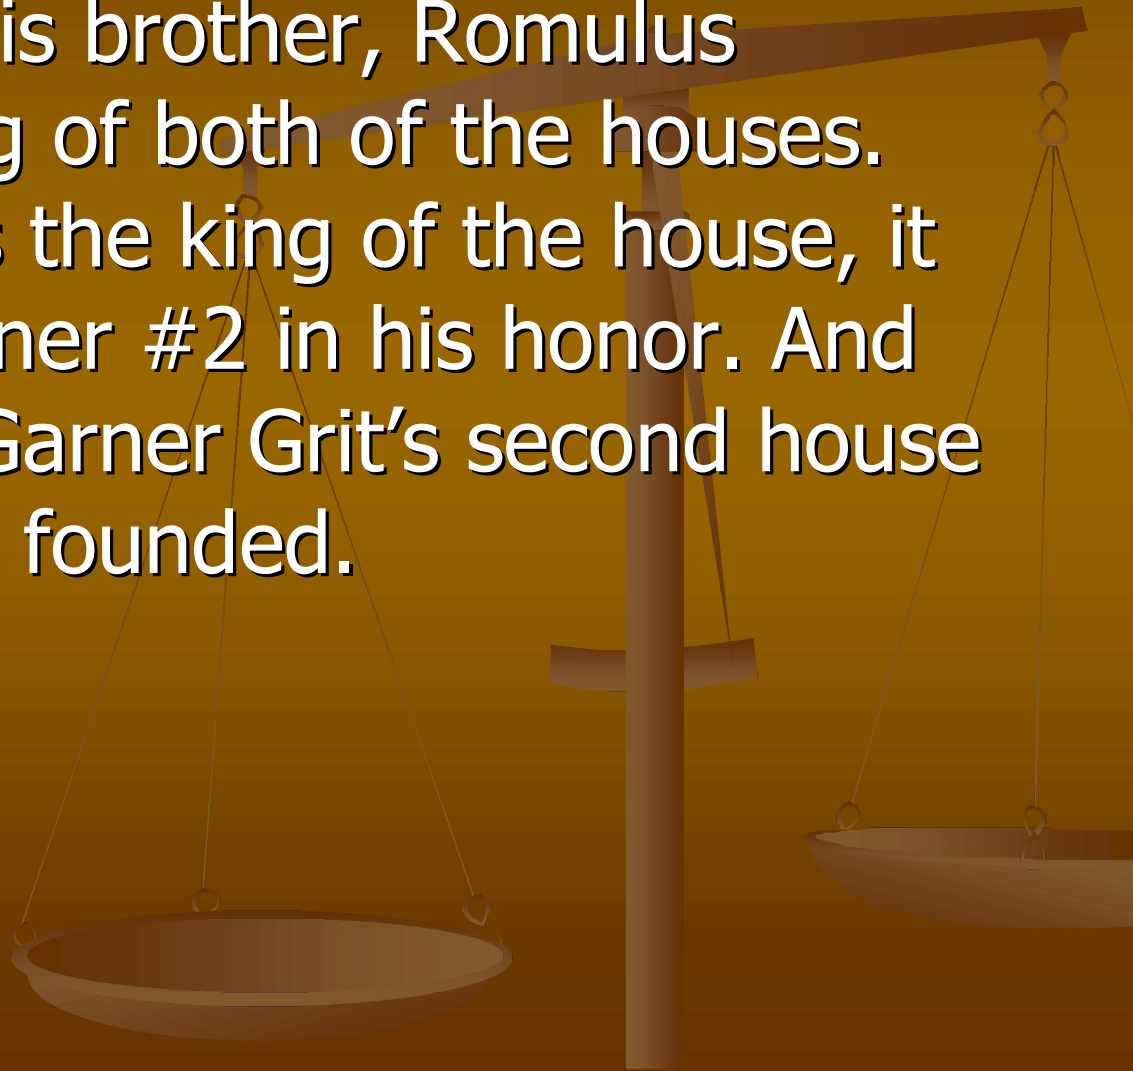

Romulus kills his brother!!!

Rome... No! Garner

- After he killed his brother, Romulus became the king of both of the houses. Because he was the king of the house, it was named Garner #2 in his honor. And that's how the Garner Grit's second house was named and founded.
